

Thursday 2 September 2010 - 9am to 4pm - Auckland Town Hall Meeting Room

A Seminar and Discussion Forum brought to you by the Urban Design Forum, New Zealand Planning Institute and the School of Architecture & Planning, University of Auckland.

Spatial Planning and Urban Design

How can urban design principles and practices influence large scale, spatial planning?
How can spatial plans deliver better quality, more sustainable urban environments?

The purpose of the seminar is to identify how urban design can be at the core of the Auckland spatial plan, giving the Urban Design Forum a platform from which to advocate to the in-coming Council. The Ministry for the Environment is providing some funding for collating the ideas discussed during the day into a commentary on urban design and spatial planning.

When: 9.00am to 4.00pm, Thursday 2 September 2010
